Fighting In Tibet Spreads: Reds Battle Dalai Lama Supporters

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Unofficial Tibetan sources Saturday reported large-scale fighting at Lhasa between Chinese Communist troops and supporters of the Dalai Lama. They said also that a big uprising had occurred at Gyantse, an important trading center 100 miles southwest of Lhasa.

But Indian government officials said they had no fresh official word on the situation in the Tibetan roof-of-the-world capital, or elsewhere in that isolated, Chinese-occupied country.

The unofficial reports came from the border town of Darjeeling, where Tibetan sources said fighting has been going on in Lhasa for the past eight days. A radio report from the Indian Consulate in Lhasa late Friday night said: "Fighting in the immediate vicinity of consulate. Situation tense and rising."

It came from Maj. S. Chibber, who has been in charge of the Indian Consulate since 1956.

But the radio later fell silent, and it appeared today that this slender communications link with Lhasa may have been cut off in the fighting.

Indian sources stressed there was no way of judging the extent of the conflict, which has been threatening sporadically ever since the Communists moved into Tibet eight years ago.

The only new reports came from Darjeeling in the Himalayan foothills. Tibetan informants there said the fighting had stemmed from fears by Tibet's 1,300,000 Buddhists that the communist Chinese occupiers were trying to remove the Dalai Lama, 23-year-old god-king.

There were fears among Tibetans that the Chinese Communists might kidnap the young spiritual and political leader. The Chinese have been annoyed for some time by the Dalai Lama's refusal to send his own tribesmen in eastern Tibet. Reports received here last summer said the tribesmen had launched a guerrilla campaign against the Chinese Reds.

Spring Fails To Rout Cold In Most Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Spring staged a mild debut in the East and parts of the northern Rockies Saturday but followed winter's script in most other sections.

Afternoon readings in the teens chilled parts of the North from Minnesota to Michigan.

Temperature drops of cold wave proportions were forecast for Ohio and Kentucky.

Find Paraplegic Stuck In Snow For 24 Hours

MARSHALLTOWN, Iowa (AP)—A 26-year-old Marshalltown man who lost use of both legs in the Korean War spent 24 harrowing hours in his specially equipped car before he was rescued late Saturday from a snowbank in Marshalltown's Riverside Cemetery.

Willis (Bud) Edle, a paraplegic, took a ride Friday afternoon and drove into a road along the north end of the cemetery to look down on the Iowa River which was swollen with snow runoff from recent storms.

"I guess I was looking down and not ahead," he said. His car slid into a three-foot snowbank and became hopelessly mired.

It came to rest on the brink of a cliff about 100 feet above the river.

Only a block away traffic moved on busy Highway 14, but no one saw Edle's plight.

Edle tried everything he could to maneuver the car out of the snow but couldn't budge it.

He thought of lifting his wheelchair out in the snow so he could get out of the car but was afraid he would fall over the cliff.

Edle yelled for help and kept on yelling. In the stillness of the cemetery and the noise of the highway traffic no one answered.

Darkness came. Edle kept turning his car lights on and off to attract attention. No one saw him.

The temperature dropped to about 20 degrees. Edle was low on gas and turned the engine on and off to keep warm. He tried to sleep intermittently.

Morning came but no help came with it.

His cries for help went unheard until Saturday afternoon when members of the Marshalltown Elks Lodge, who had gone to the cemetery for a burial service, heard him yelling.

Edle's car was so mired in the snow that a heavy duty wrecker had to be used to pull him out.

Expect Quick State Action On Extending Unemployment Pay

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The drive to keep alive extended jobless benefits, fast approaching their expiration date, will be renewed when the Illinois Legislature reconvenes this week.

The Senate has scheduled a public hearing for Tuesday on the Stratton administration bill as a preliminary to possible final passage the next day. Sponsors are anxious that the measure clear the legislature in time to be signed into law by March 31.

That's the date when the current program of 39, rather than 26, weeks of unemployment compensation is scheduled to lapse. The program was approved by a special legislative session last June in response to rising unemployment.

Not only would the administration bill maintain the extra benefits through June 30, but it also would insure the adoption of a 39-week program whenever the level of unemployment reaches 4.375 per cent of the total insured work force for any two consecutive months.

Some opposition to the measure is expected to be voiced in the upper chamber, as it was in the House last week, but Gov. Stratton's Senate leaders are predicting success.

Both Republicans and Democrats expect a showdown this week on the politically loaded proposal to investigate the State Welfare Department headed by Director Otto Bettag, a Stratton appointee.

Democratic sponsors held off calling their investigative resolution for adoption last week on the theory they could use an extra week to solicit needed support. As reported out of committee, the resolution not only calls for a Welfare Department probe but also provides for a study of two welfare institutions in the Democratic Cook County stronghold. The latter provision was tacked on by Republicans seeking to make the measure unpalatable to members on the other side of the aisle.

Rep. Abner Mikva (D-Chicago), chief sponsor, said he would move for adoption this week, and in doing so would present evidence to support his charges of bidding and purchasing practice irregularities within the department.

Committees are scheduled to act on legislation dealing with personal property taxes, free admission to the State Fair and reorganization of the State Police Merit Board.

The property tax resolution is slated for its second hearing Wednesday by the House committee which screens proposed amendments to the State Constitution. At that time, opponents will be heard on the proposal, which would exempt household furnishings, personal effects, pleasure cars and capital stock of Illinois corporations from personal taxes.

On the calendar of the House Agriculture Committee is a bill to remove the 1957 provisions for paid admission to the State Fair, while the House Judiciary Committee is scheduled to consider a bill providing for the death penalty.

Sanity Trial For Murderess To Open Tuesday

VENTURA, Calif. (AP)—The third round of the Elizabeth Duncan murder case opens Tuesday when she will be given a sanity trial.

A jury of eight women and four men Friday night fixed death in the gas chamber as her punishment for hiring two men to kill her pregnant daughter-in-law, Olga Duncan, 30. Earlier, the same jury found Mrs. Duncan, 54, guilty of first degree murder.

Evidence on Mrs. Duncan's plea of innocent by reason of insanity will be submitted to Superior Court Judge Charles F. Blackstock, who presided over the trial and penalty hearing. Prosecution and defense attorneys agreed to present their cases without a jury.

Two psychiatrists who testified for the defense in the penalty hearing said Mrs. Duncan is legally sane. One added that he considers her mentally ill.

Mrs. Duncan said of the jury's decision that she should be executed: "I thought it was a rotten deal. I was tried before a biased jury."

Hold Man, 90, For Homicide In Mercy Killing Of Wife, 90

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—It was a strange place to hold court—in a corridor of Philadelphia General Hospital.

It was a sad and pathetic figure who was held on a charge of homicide—a man of 90 who shot his wife to death because he no longer could bear to see her suffer. She, too, was 90.

No one relished the prosecution. Even the magistrate wept, saying, "I am sorry to be the one to hold you for court."

Just outside the hospital's detention ward the defendant, George Hope, a retired motorman, sat woodenly in a wheelchair.

Before the hearing he said he wanted only to be free, to be with the devoted wife he killed Saturday with a single bullet in the head as she slept.

On hand were Magistrate Michael Davis, Edward Rosenwald, an assistant district attorney, and a homicide squad detective, Joseph Caruthers. There also were George's daughter, Lucy Dickie, 61, and her husband, Ralph, of identical age. They came down from Newburyport, Mass., after hearing the tragic news.

Caruthers, the only witness, told how Hope sat up with his sick wife for three nights in a row; that she had been ill of heart disease for nine years, extremely so for the past year; and that the husband had waited on her hand and foot in the two-story row house that had been their home for 62 years.

From the detective came also Hope's account of having prayed all Thursday night for guidance, asking God what to do, and in the end believing the merciful thing to do was to take a life.

He killed his wife with a .32 caliber pistol he bought in 1910. Then he fired one shot at himself. But the shot went wild.

Magistrate Davis, his eyes filling with tears, said: "I know you have been a very good man—good to your family and to your wife—because I know people who knew you very well. I know the law does not give me the right to parole you for life now, but I hope that God has mercy on you."

In utter silence Hope was wheeled back into the ward. Later he will be moved to a prison hospital ward, there to await his day before a judge.

7 Arab Rulers Who Opposed Nasser Fell; Is Kassem Next?

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Seven Arab rulers who dared to stand against President Gamal Abdel Nasser's dream of empire have been shorn of power in less than two years. Now Premier Abdel Karim Kassem of Iraq has been marked for destruction.

Always before, Nasser's well-oiled, highly efficient propaganda machine has handled the job, with Nasser only taking a personal hand when needed.

This time Nasser has staked his formidable reputation by personally leading the assault on Kassem.

Whether Kassem can stand up against Nasser, heretofore the undisputed idol of the Arab masses, remains to be seen. The conflict may well turn into a test of strength for Arab leadership.

It is ironic that Nasser's No. 1 target at the moment was the man who wiped out three of the United Arab Republic president's major enemies in one coup last summer in Iraq.

But Kassem then cautiously drew away from Nasser's all-embracing Arab nationalism and swung to the left. Nasser backers in Iraq were shunted aside or arrested. Arab Communists in Iraq rose in influence.

Before Kassem, eight Arab rulers challenged Nasser. Only one—King Hussein of Jordan—still has all his powers.

Here is what happened to the other seven:

President Camille Chamoun of Lebanon, knocked out of a second term by a summer-long rebellion. He remains in the fastness of Mt. Lebanon, rarely visiting Beirut.

Premier Sami Solh of Lebanon, who sided with Chamoun against the pro-Nasser rebellion. He is still vacationing in Europe.

King Saud of Saudi Arabia, stripped of most authority and reduced to a figurehead.

King Faisal, Premier Nuri Said, and Crown Prince Abdul Ilah, pro-Western triumvirate in control of Iraq, all assassinated by Kassem's supporters.

Premier Abdullah Khalil of Sudan, overthrown in a military coup d'etat.

RIGHT ANSWER—BUT IT COST $24.30

CHARLOTTE, Mich. (AP)—"Where do you think you're going to a fire?" asked the policeman who stopped Phillip Snyder.

"Yes," replied the 35-year-old Charlotte volunteer fireman, "I'm on my way to a house fire."

However, the right answer to the classic question didn't do any good. Snyder was fined $24.30 in Municipal Court Friday and also was suspended from the Fire Department.

Police Chief Bart Howe said Snyder had skidded 44 feet through a red light and almost hit a car before he was stopped.

"Snyder's violation was way out of line," Howe added.

SUNDAY SHOPPING ISSUE
MEXICO CITY (AP)—A Sunday shopping issue has arisen in Mexico. Present law provides that some merchants may be fined for operating on the Sabbath. The National Chamber of Commerce asked the government last week to permit stores to open Sundays. It said this would be a public service to many people, particularly the poor.

Ike, Macmillan Rule Out 'Disengaging' Troops In Europe

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain agreed Saturday to offer the Soviet Union a summit conference this summer. At the same time they ruled out any plan to "disengage" East-West forces in central Europe.

The two Western leaders reached these decisions during the second day of their talks in a tree-ringed lodge in the nearby Catoctin Mountains of Maryland.

Eisenhower and Macmillan were reported to have compromised their main differences on the troublesome summit issue.

The formula agreed upon moved Eisenhower a step closer to a summit meeting but fell short of Macmillan's desire for an unconditional offer to meet with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

British diplomats said, however, that in accepting the formula Eisenhower agreed to consider a summit conference even if a prior foreign ministers conference should fail to ease East-West tensions.

U.S. officials disagreed with this interpretation. They said Eisenhower still is insisting that some progress be made in lower-level diplomatic talks before any meeting with Khrushchev. However, they conceded the Eisenhower-Macmillan agreement made a summit conference, either in July or August, almost a certainty.

While opposing disengagement, Macmillan urged Eisenhower to consider seriously an attempt to "freeze" the number of troops and weapons in a European zone to be agreed upon with the U.S.S.R.

The disengagement concept both men rejected was defined as any plan to pull back or sharply reduce the number of Soviet and Western forces now stationed in central Europe.

The British and U.S. governments both believe, it was said, that such a disengagement would leave a power vacuum which would endanger European peace.

There were indications that Eisenhower gave a cool reception to Macmillan's idea of freezing the status of men and weapons in the area. White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said there was "very little discussion" of the idea after Macmillan outlined it in an afternoon meeting. He declined to state any U.S. reaction.

Peter Hope, Macmillan's spokesman, said the British leader put forward his plan as "an experiment in disarmament." The plan would help lessen tension, he said, and decrease the danger of surprise attack in Europe.

Eisenhower and Macmillan are due to end the Camp David phase of their talks Sunday. They tentatively plan to drive back to Washington together in midafternoon.

A final meeting at the White House probably will be held Monday. They have agreed, however, to omit the usual windup communique after their talks end.

The two Western leaders worked out a formula which apparently resolved their differences on the summit issue. Authoritative officials said it proposes:

1. A Big Four foreign ministers' meeting starting May 11, probably in Geneva, to begin the task of negotiating with the Soviet Union on the Berlin crisis, Germany, and disarmament.

2. A follow-up summit conference of the kind Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has been demanding, either in July or August. No definite date or site was specified.

U.S. and British conference spokesmen refused to spell out what conditions, if any, Eisenhower and Macmillan had set in their offer to meet with Khrushchev.

The Eisenhower-Macmillan formula, agreed on in a two-hour morning meeting, was put into the draft of notes the two men favor.

YOUTH TELLS OF DRUGS THAT LED TO PAL'S DEATH

REDLANDS, Calif. (AP)—"It seemed like we just had to keep on until we reached some kind of conclusion, something concrete—to show people."

Thus did a saddened teenager explain the weird chemical experiments which led to the death of a fellow student, Michael Hawks. "Every human being, even guys our age, has problems," David Dunning told his professors.

So Hawks and Dunning, both 18, bright University of Redlands students, proceeded with their dangerous experiments—even after they were warned by school authorities to stop them.

Hawks was found unconscious in his room Tuesday. He died later that night in a hospital. Death was attributed Friday to intoxication from chloral hydrate, a hypnotic sedative which often produces strange dreams.

Hawks and Dunning used several drugs, including LSD-25—lysergic acid diethylamide—which scientists say causes temporary insanity or irrationality.

Dunning said this drug had "produced insights into my own personality." But he acknowledged surprise that Hawks had attempted to use the chloral hydrate on his own.

"He knew that stuff was dangerous," said Dunning.

Dep. Coroner Edward Doyle ruled Friday night that Hawks' death was accidental. He said there would be no inquest.

Probers Hearings Focused On Plots Of Underworld

By G. MILTON KELLY
WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate Labor - Management Committee spokesman said Saturday the group will expose how mobsters sometimes have played one labor union against another in schemes to milk huge sums from businessmen.

Chief counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the story will emerge from hearings starting Monday on jukebox and vending machine rackets in New Orleans, Los Angeles and Miami.

The committee's announced objective is to unmask what it calls a nationwide plot by underworld barons to muscle in on legitimate coin-operated machine enterprises to extort protection payments from some operators and take over the entire business of others.

Kennedy said the illicit take amounts to millions of dollars.

The hearings resuming here Monday afternoon will focus first on New Orleans and the operations of the brothers Carlos and Vincent Marcello.

The old Senate Crime Investigating Committee contended in 1953 that Carlos Marcello was a man with a record of many arrests and only three convictions, largely because witnesses feared to testify against him.

ATTEND CONFERENCE

AT ILLINOIS U.

URBANA—Officials and alumni of Jacksonville High school participated March 17-18 in a Conference on School-University Relations at the University of Illinois in Urbana-Champaign. The conference is one of a series co-sponsored by the University and the Illinois Secondary School Principals Association. General purpose of the conferences is to help students bridge the gap between high school and college work. The recent conference concentrated on three phases of the problem: English and mathematics preparation, and the counseling of high school pupils.

Attending from Jacksonville were Gary Dumas, Counselor Elsie Evans, Principal John Agger, Marvin Wahl, Gary Watts and Frank Phillips.

Your chafing dish is an ideal container for serving a hearty supper soup and keeping it piping hot for second serve-ups.

NO HAND IN GLOVE—Bizarre scene suggests horror movie as doctor prepares hypodermic for phantom arms. Not so. It's air-and-moisture-proof testing chamber at Sun Research and Development Center, Marcus Hook, Pa. When researcher isn't using rubber gloves to handle test materials, they're pulled inside out, as here. Scientist William Henderson uses a foot-long needle to remove sample from flask.

News Notes From JHS

By

Connie Hazelrigg and Donna Woodruff

Congratulations to the class of 1960 on a very successful presentation of the 1959 Jr.-Sr. Banquet and Prom, with the theme "Magic Moments."

A banquet honoring the 59 seniors was held at 6:00 p.m. in McClelland Hall with an invocation given by Pat Crowcroft. Following the meal, Toastmaster John Mann introduced speakers Gary Cook, Gary Brockhouse, Mary Beth Hayes, Bill Sanders, and Mr. John Agger. There were musical selections furnished by a junior girls trio, Jean Sorrels, Pat Phillips, and Virginia Gronseth, and a solo by senior Navana Eyre.

"Harvey" the magic rabbit sat looking out of his big blue hat to welcome the couples to the Jr.-Sr. Prom. Lou Hahn provided dance music from 9-12 for couples as they whirled about the blue and white decorated ball room.

Following the Prom, a double feature film presentation was shown at the Illinois Theater for all couples who desired to attend.

A 4 o'clock breakfast was served at the Dunlap Hotel to all students and dates who had attended the theater, thus bringing to a close those wonderful "Magic Moments" of the 1959 Jr.-Sr. Prom.

The cast of "The Adorable Spendthrift" is hard at work preparing for its presentation on April 2nd and 3rd.

Best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hayes who this week announced their wedding. Mrs. Hayes is the former Marian Kay Owens, a '59 senior and Mr. Hayes graduated with the class of '58.

Easter Egg Hunt At Park Next Sunday

The Jacksonville Jaycees are hoping for a bright warm Easter Sunday. The annual Easter egg hunt sponsored by them is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Sunday, March 29, for all kiddies in the Jacksonville area.

Hundreds of foil wrapped candy eggs will be hidden throughout four separate designed areas around the band stand and dance pavilion at Nichols Park.

The Easter egg hunt is for children up through eight years old, divided into the following age classifications: Children up to three years old, three and four years; five and six years; and seven and eight years old. There will be three prizes for boys, three for girls and one special prize in each age group.

The prizes will be awarded on the basis of the number of eggs found, and children are reminded to bring their own baskets to put their eggs in. All of the eggs found may be kept by the children finding them.

All of the prizes have been selected from the large toy display of the Toy Center on the north side of the square.

In case of rain or cold damp weather the hunt will be postponed until the following Sunday at the same time. Park superintendent, John McGee, wishes to assure parents that his force will be on hand to safeguard the youngsters finding them.

Helping Hands

The girl at loose ends is Marilyn Monroe, the happy fellow peering around to lend a helping hand is Tom Ewell. It's a scene from the rollicking stage success, "The Seven Year Itch," now transformed into a must-see CinemaScope film. On the same program, starting Easter Sunday at the Times Theatre will be another great favorite "Love Is A Many Splendored Thing."

Circle Hannah Studies Arabia, Israel Films

The March meeting of Circle Hannah of the Grace Methodist Church was held at the home of Mrs. Russell Rawlings. There were 18 members present and Mrs. Clarence Quintal presided over the session.

As the meeting opened a moment of silent prayer was observed in memory of Mrs. Flora Knowles.

Following routine business, the devotions were given by Mrs. Jack Thomas. She used the theme "Easter is a Way of Life."

Mrs. Charles Vieira, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Milo Gregory who showed two filmstrips with commentary on the life of Arabia and Israel. The group enjoyed the films and held a discussion on the major trends in these lands in recent years.

Mrs. Rawlings' mother, Mrs. Oliver Jones, was a guest. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. John Murray, served lovely refreshments at the close of the meeting.

HARNESSING THE NILE—Bogged down for years in international politics and beset with money troubles, Egypt's attempt to build a great dam across the Nile River at Aswan (see Newsmag above) nears realization. U.S. withdrawal of support for the project was one of the factors involved in United Arab Republic President Nasser's seizure of the Suez Canal in 1956. Photo shows workmen awarded by the structure. Slated for completion in 1960, it will not only add two million acres of arable land to Egypt's narrow life-supporting strip along the Nile, but will supply nearly two billion kilowatts of electricity each year.

American Studies Group Holds Fourth Annual Meet

There may soon be a different kind of organization man in American industry, a University of Illinois professor declared Saturday at MacMurray College. He spoke at the fourth annual meeting of the Central Mississippi Valley Chapter of the American Studies Association.

Dr. Bernard Karsh, Professor of Sociology, said that "the junior executive as we now know him in the Madison Avenue gray flannel suit is not too long for this world. People who don't have very much technical know-how but are shooting for the presidency of the firm via the progression of first-line supervision and on up are likely to get themselves programmed and routinized. The technicians and the researchers will have a clearer road to the presidency than the junior line executives."

A second University of Illinois sociology professor, Dr. Joseph Gusfield, spoke on the culture of an organizational society. He declared that William H. Whyte in "The Organization Man" has misunderstood some of the crucial changes occurring in American life.

"He fails to see the balancing effect of values encouraged by the emphasis on belonging, togetherness and teamwork... Conformity, at some level, is almost a definition of society," he said. It had to be, if "a highly pluralistic society is to avoid intensive conflict and the disruption of predictable routine."

Dr. Karsh, reiterating his colleague's opinion as applied to industry rather than society, said that "in a sense, the pressure to conform will become more intense, for the individual will be required to stay within the limits of the routines that are set for him."

Fres, Norris Greets Delegates
"A man grows by projecting himself into a group," Dr. Louis W. Norris said in quoting the philosopher Hegel, as the MacMurray President greeted guests Saturday morning in the Social Room of Main Hall. Delegates came from five states to attend the meeting.

"It is a great over-simplification to suppose that the organization man is recent," Dr. Norris said. "Actually, this goes back to tribal customs when there was pressure to conform to group norms."

Professor Gregory P. Stone of the University of Missouri presented a general assessment of the organization man as the last phase of the morning session. After lunch in McClelland Dining Hall, the annual business meeting of the Central Mississippi Valley Chapter was held, before the second session began at 2 p.m., Saturday.

The individualism of the Transcendentalists was the topic for the afternoon session, with Professor Richard L. Herrnstadt, Iowa State College; Robert P. Cobb, University of Kansas; and Earle Stibitz, Southern Illinois University.

Presiding at this session was Dr. Howard W. Webb, Professor of History at Southern Illinois University. Presiding at the morning session was Dr. Robert W. Habenstein, Professor of Sociology at the University of Missouri.

Coordinating the fourth annual meeting was Dr. Walter B. Hendrickson, Professor of American History at MacMurray College.

CARROLLTON—Miss Barbara Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Walker, and Dick Daum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Daum all of Carrollton were married Saturday, March 21 in the First Baptist church in Carrollton by the Rev. ## No Arms Or Legs From Birth

They Paint New Horizons—The Hard Way

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent

STRASBOUGH, France—(NEA)—Marie Daisy was born 40-odd years ago without arms or legs.

This is a tragedy that might destroy most parents and eventually the child. Fortunately for Marie, her parents were of strong Normandy stock.

They gave her an education, and encouraged her to develop a talent to fill the long, lonely hours. That talent was painting. Now Marie has several awards to her credit—for paintings she creates by holding a brush between her teeth and her shoulder.

The story of Marie Daisy is perhaps the most extraordinary of those you hear at the Association of Handicapped Artists, which has its headquarters in Strasbourg, France's ancient city on the Rhine River.

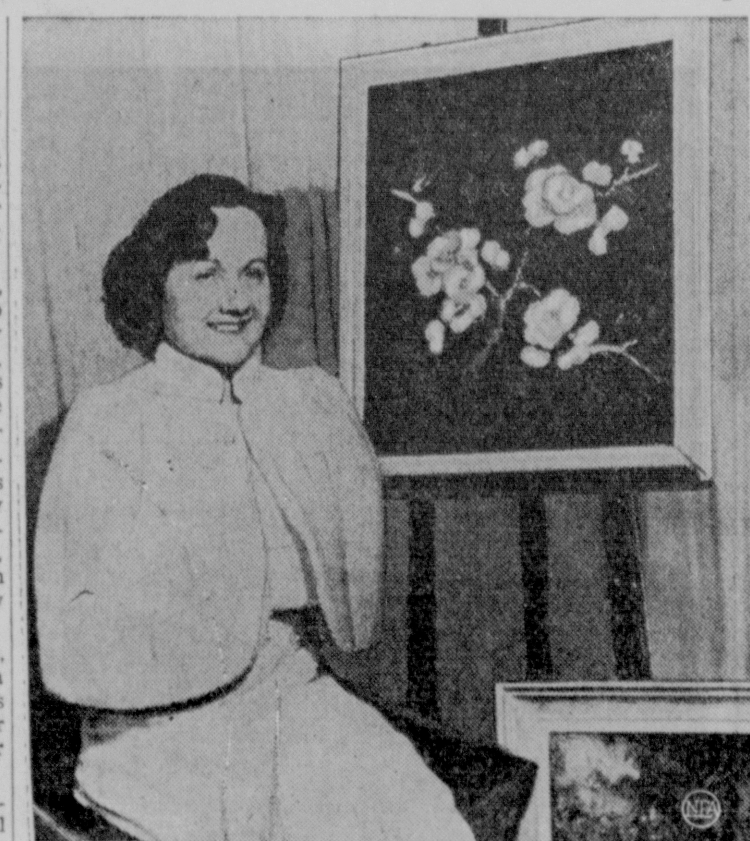

Handicapped by a birth defect, or an accident or illness later in life, none of its students paints in the orthodox way with their hands. They all paint with their mouths or their feet.

Every oil or water color represents an incredible effort of will power, and is testimony to an inexhaustible fund of patience.

Few of the members of this unusual "academy" can be called great artists. But all bear in mind the example of Renoir, the French impressionist crippled with arthritis who painted masterpieces with his brush strapped to his hand.

Successful professionally are 35-year-old Madeleine Jars and German-born Arnulf Stegman. Both painted with their mouths.

When Madeleine, the daughter of a civil servant, was born the doctors soon realized that not only would she never have the use of arms and legs but that she was unable to talk.

Thanks to the love and patience of her mother, Madeleine learned to read at an early age. Her memory was prodigious. The next step was to learn to write. Gripping a pencil between her teeth she would spend hours duplicating three or four letters of the alphabet. When at last she had mastered the two R's, she graduated to painting.

Her father invented a series of instruments which made it easier for her to mix her paints and hold her brushes. She needs from four to six weeks to turn out a small painting, working several hours a day.

Arnulf Stegman lost the use of his arms after contracting polio as a child. Now in his late forties, his works are exhibited in many countries. He also was the star pupil of the Munich School of Art, in Germany.

In Strasbourg these personalities in the world of painting continue to create beauty with their crippled resources, and to find meaning to a life that could have been a reservoir of despair.

Camp David Provides Maximum Seclusion, Comfort For Eisenhower, Macmillan Talks

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — A hideaway on a forested mountain top is providing maximum seclusion and maximum comfort—even luxury—for President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain.

Peering through the underbrush and a sturdy mesh fence topped with barbed wire, you wouldn't suspect that a quarter mile away is a presidential lodge with such touches as air conditioning or steam heat, movies, TV, stereo and hi-fi, barbecue and big binoculars on the terrace, hothouse flowers on the tables inside, and even push buttons in bathrooms and on the terrace to summon the help.

Aspen Lodge is the main building among several dozen at Camp David. The 134-acre camp sprawls along the highest part of a ridge of the Catoctin Mountains, 1,822 feet above sea level.

Eisenhower and Macmillan whirled in here Friday by helicopter from Washington, 65 miles to the southeast.

Sixteen powerful binoculars were mounted on a revolving stand on the flagstone terrace outside the sun porch, for those who wanted to admire the view at close range.

Lesser lights in the British and American parties strolled down into a stepped, informal garden. They meandered out on Eisenhower's well-tended, abbreviated golf course—three tees and fairways focusing on a single green.

The view stretches out and down for miles, toward the east, over a rolling countryside. The nearest town, Thurmont, Md., is six miles away.

The presidential lodge and all the other buildings at the camp are of board and batten construction in a rustic effect. All are painted a sort of weathered gray, with just a hint of green.

The camp is one of three built during the depression of the 1930's by the Civilian Conservation Corps. All were for the use of the public, and two still are.

The third was taken over by the White House in 1942 to provide a place where President Roosevelt could find rest and seclusion comparatively close to Washington. He called it Shangri-La. Eisenhower changed the name to Camp David, after his oldest grandchild.

Gravel walks and drive ways ramble through the woods and among the buildings. A glistening black White House limousine brought Eisenhower and Macmillan down the drive from the heliport a few hundred yards away. They hopped out and posed for pictures, bareheaded, and squinting into the sun. Beside them were acting Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and British Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd.

Reporters are barred from the camp while the top-level deliberations are actually under way. But they were allowed to look around the grounds a bit and peer in through the windows.

This was the scene: The living-dining room is about 14x25 feet. The adjoining sun porch is a few feet longer and perhaps a bit wider.

The floors are carpeted, as is the rest of the lodge, in thick, beige, twisted broadloom.

A massive stone fireplace takes up most of the north end of the living-dining room. Above it are mounted a presidential seal and a general of the Army's five gold stars in a semicircle above the seal.

The dining table stands in front of the fireplace.

A lime-colored love seat and two easy chairs in tan tweed form an L in the center of the room, in front of a TV set at the south end. In one corner is a walnut card table covered with green felt, with four walnut chairs around it upholstered in a persimmon fabric. Except for a post in the center, which holds accordion-type wooden doors, the living-dining room is completely open to the sun porch. The latter really is the room for living and lounging, and that was where the two world leaders and their top advisers sat around on divans and easy chairs for two hours of consultations during the afternoon.

At the north end of the room, a wooden screen conceals movie projectors. A large movie screen pulls down from a cornice at the opposite end. In a recess next to the projectors are the hi-fi and radio, with built-in book shelves rising above.

Both of the large rooms have cathedral-type, beamed ceilings.

White Hall To Issue Nursing Home Permits

The proposed figure is an increase of $50.00 over the $75.00 paid by the city in 1958, the city reservoir covering an area of about five acres of land owned by Mrs. Schumann.

Discussion was then held of granting city permits to nursing homes in the city limits which have met required State specifications and it was voted to issue such permits, for a period of one year to all homes showing evidence of State approval.

The Open Look For New Spring Shoes Vivid Colors In Textured Leathers

The tapered toe goes on into spring in sleek shoes often cut in a more open fashion. The newest way to an open look is through airy side and instep treatments. The perfect daytime shoe for spring is this pump (upper left) with narrow instep strap. It's done in two tones of turquoise and two leathers, brushed and smooth. Late day into evening shoe (upper center) is in two tones of green and a combination of calf and suede leathers. V-strap gives the shoe its airy look. Far Eastern influence shows in this pump (upper right) with an Oriental air. It has pointed toe slightly upturned and jeweled in the turquoise color of the shoe. The well-loved American spectator pump appears in this spring (lower left) in white brushed leather trimmed with deep brown calf. That new patent leather that won't crack appears in this afternoon pump (lower center) with pointed toe and slim T-strap. At-home shoe is a thong sandal (lower right) in vivid shades of turquoise, orange and blue. Leather dander picks up colors of the sandal and adds feminine look.

BY GAILE DUGAS, NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The new look of shoe fashions for this spring is readily defined in two ways: brilliant color and open shoe. By open shoe is meant, of course, that shoes are more open and airy than they have been.

The open look is achieved in many ways. It's done through perforations and cutouts, side cutouts, the open back coupled with the closed front, and through high and handsome T-straps.

Color is no longer restricted to late day or evening wear. It can start out in the morning and go right through the day. The new shoe colors for spring are grouped roughly into five classes: the hot pinks, brilliant reds, bright blues, salad to avocado greens and the corals to orange. But there are also welcome and lovely touches of mauve, pink and lilac, deep purple and a whole group of pale beiges. Smooth and shiny leathers are often combined with textured or brushed leathers to produce interesting contrasts. Sometimes this idea is extended to the blending of two colors as well as two leathers in the same shoe. The shape of the shoe for spring continues to be sleek with a tapered toe.

Murrayville Sons, Fathers Enjoy Chicken Dinner

Recognition of the oldest father present was F. J. Harvey and the youngest father was Tom Walker. The youngest son present was Bryan Basham.

A round of applause was given the women for the fine meal and the program closed with slides shown by James Mason.

Mrs. Armstrong Named Chairman Of 1960 Parley

Mrs. Russell Armstrong, 6 Turner Road, has been appointed Chairman of Morgan County for the 1960 White House Conference on Children and Youth. The appointment has been announced by Mrs. Robert L. Foote, Chairman of the Illinois Committee for the 1960 White House Conference on Children and Youth.

Mrs. Armstrong, Supervisor of Morgan County Child Welfare Services for several years was suggested for the appointment by Robert E. Bradney, Chairman of the Morgan County Child Welfare Advisory Board. This Board, of which Mrs. Armstrong is secretary, recently voted to assume responsibility in this County for the fact-finding preparatory to the White House Conference in Washington, D.C.

The 1960 White House Conference on Children and Youth has been called by President Eisenhower for March, 1960, to consider "how to prepare today's children for life in tomorrow's world." Prior to 1960, citizen committees in each state will conduct fact-finding surveys and make recommendations regarding services for and needs of young people. Their findings will provide the raw material for the national conference.

Income Tax Exemption Rules Tricky, But Well Worth Knowing

By FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP) — The biggest tax-cutter of all is the $600 exemption you can claim for yourself and each of your dependents. The rules are tricky but well worth knowing.

Every taxpayer gets at least one exemption, for himself. That means, right off the bat, you don't have to pay any tax on $600 of income. And if you were 65 or over on or before Jan. 1, 1959, you can claim a second $600 exemption. Any blind taxpayer is entitled to still another.

On a joint return, you also get an exemption for your husband or wife—two if your mate is 65 or over.

You may be able to claim more exemptions for your children, members of your household, not counting servants, and dependent relatives. There are five tests they must meet, however. They must:

1. Have received more than half their total support from you.
2. Not have filed a joint return for 1958 with their husband or wife.
3. Be a citizen of the United States or a resident of the United States.

Slates, Canada, Mexico, Panama are: mother, father, mother-in-law, father-in-law, brother, sister, stepbrother, stepsister, brother-in-law, sister-in-law, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, stepmother, stepfather, grandparents, grandchildren — when related by blood — aunt, uncle, niece or nephew.

Sometimes several people together provide more than half the support of a relative — a widowed mother, for example — although none contributes more than half the support alone. Each can take a turn claiming an exemption if:

1. The supported person meets the five tests of a dependent, except that no one person provides more than half the support.
2. The person claiming the exemption contributes more than 10 per cent of the dependent's support.
3. Each other person in the contributing group files a statement with the Internal Revenue Service declaring he or she is not claiming the individual as an exemption for that same year.

Adopted Korean Baby Arrives In Pittsfield

PITTSFIELD — The adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. William Harpole of Rockport arrived on Wednesday after a trip of 5,000 miles. The boy, Kim Chul Nam, was flown from Korea and reached Midway airport in Chicago on Wednesday morning. The Harpoles were notified Tuesday evening that Kim had arrived in Portland, Ore.

A Chicago woman, also adopting a Korean baby, had flown to Portland and brought both infants to Chicago and the Harpoles met their baby there. The Harpoles made negotiations for the adoption in November and drove to Portland at Christmas time to meet him and he was not on the plane at that time because he had not received the necessary inoculations.

They have taken him to a doctor for an examination and learned he is in good health. They have named him Dennis Wayne. Mr. Harpole was in the Korean War and now works for the Rockport branch of the Stark nurseries of Louisiana, Mo.

Springfield Senators Win 1959 State Basketball Crown

Beat Aurora 60-52 For First State Title In 24 Years

Associated Press Sports Writer CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Springfield's Senators, led by Tom Cole and George Mathis, spanked West Aurora 60-52 Saturday night to give the state capital its first Illinois high school basketball championship in 24 years.

The defense-minded Senators effectively bottled up West Aurora's Bill Small, who had been averaging better than 28 points in the tournament and turned Cole and Mathis loose on the weary Blackhawks.

West Aurora reached the finals by slugging top-ranked Galesburg 74-61 and Springfield trounced Waukegan 64-40 in semifinal play.

The triumph in addition to winning the championship gave the Senators revenge for last year's 59-48 loss to West Aurora in quarterfinal play.

The win was the 32nd straight for Springfield which closed out with a 33-1 record. The loss was to Taylorville in the opening week of play. It was also the school's third championship.

West Aurora which never has won a title but finished second to Canton in 1928, ended with a 27 record.

Except for an opening 2-0 lead, West Aurora never was in front and lagged by as much as 13 points after Cole scored 11 points in a row for the Senators early in the third quarter.

West Aurora, after trailing by 13 points on three occasions in the second half, closed within four in the final minute but the damage had been done and Small and Larry Secor already had fouled out.

Small left the game with 18 points, 9 coming in the first quarter, and won individual tournament honors with 103.

Cole hit for 26 Saturday night and finished with 90, second only to Small. Mathis, the man responsible for Springfield's early lead, finished with 19 and did more than his share of rebounding.

Springfield was in complete command in the first half except when Secor, a ball of fire for the Blackhawks in other tournament games, stole a pass and drove in for a 2-0 Aurora lead.

Cole tied it up with a basket and Mathis opened a three-point bulge when he scored on the first of two free throws, missed the second and tossed in the rebound for a 3-2 lead.

Scores by Mathis and Cole off set a nine point spree by Small who suddenly slowed down in the second quarter. Small didn't cool off when he was held to one free throw in the second period, his teammates simply couldn't get the ball to him through the tough Springfield defense.

Mathis and Cole continued their onslaught, getting behind the nets from Lynn Neff and Charlie Shauger, to hoist the Senators into a 31-24 halftime lead. Holding up West Aurora's end in the second quarter was John Schwenk who scored five points in one stretch.

The end came suddenly for the Blackhawks. The second half opened on a basket by Cole with 42 seconds of the third quarter gone. In the next four minutes Cole scored 8 more points and kayoed West Aurora's hopes.

Small broke loose with three baskets early in the fourth quarter after being shut out in the third but fouled out after hitting a pair of free throws. Secor also left and West's ambitious and well rested reserves opened up on the tiring Senators who still had enough steam left to win going away on a layup by Cole and a 25 foot jump shot by Lee Pelham.

Galesburg's Silver Streaks shook Waukegan 76-66 for third place. Dave Cox and Lawrence (Bumpy) Nixon, two consistent scorers with rebounding ability, led the Galesburg triumph which was assured in the third quarter when the Streaks piled up a 61-50 advantage.

Cox scored 22 points for Galesburg and Nixon added 20.

Until Galesburg opened up the game in the third quarter, Waukegan made a battle of it. No more than three points separated the two teams in the first quarter which ended in a 22-22 tie.

AFTERNOON SESSION
By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

West Aurora and Springfield, a couple of tournament dark horses who play different brands of basketball, will meet for the Illinois High School championship Saturday night.

West Aurora, displaying unexpected poise, ousted top-ranked Galesburg 74-61, and Springfield swept past Waukegan 64-40 in Saturday afternoon's semifinals.

West Aurora's Bill Small, getting top grade help from 6-2 Jim Konrad and 6-2 Larry Secor, dumped in 27 points and took the starch out of the cocky Silver Streaks with his precision shooting and powerful rebounding.

Secor, the tournament's leading scorer with 85 points, spread his point making with 9 in the first quarter, 5 in the second, 5 in the third and 8 in the final period. Konrad contributed 15 points and Secor, in addition to some feeds which had the crowd of 6,905 gasping, dumped in 14.

West Aurora, a 6-4 point underdog, left behind 19-15 at the quarter. Shortly after the second period started, Secor hit two straight baskets to pull the Blackhawks into a 21-14 lead. Galesburg went ahead on a free throw by Bumpy Nixon but Konrad hit on a shot jump to put West Aurora ahead for good.

Small, Secor and Schwenk gave West Aurora enough scoring punch for a 34-30 halftime lead. Nixon, a 6-6 strongman, went on a one-man spree in the third quarter to wipe out a seven-point West Aurora lead and give the Streaks into a 43-42 advantage. But again it was Konrad in the clutch and his two baskets from the side pushed West Aurora ahead to stay 46-43.

Except for some additional scoring by Nixon, Galesburg was through and West Aurora kept throwing it's lead. West Aurora shot 532 to Galesburg's 388.

The triumph gave West Aurora a 22-6 record and Galesburg bowed out with a 28-2 mark. Springfield, which relies more on defense but has sufficient offense, made it 31 straight in spilling Waukegan (21-6).

Waukegan found Springfield's defense too much to crack while the Bulldogs' pressing tactics failed to harass the Senators.

Tom Cole and George Mathis carried the load for Springfield with 23 and 22 points, respectively. Plucky Dick Nixon was the only Waukegan player to score with any consistency. Nixon had 14 points when he fouled out with 1:43 left.

Despite scoring only 11 goals from the field—7 of them by Nixon—Waukegan, which eliminated defending champion Marshall in the first round, was in contention until the opening of the third quarter.

Cole, who played a tremendous game on defense, and Mathis helped open a 29-22 lead in the third quarter. Nixon went on a nine-point scoring spree but when the period ended the Senators were in front 39-33.

The closest Waukegan could get was within five points when substitute Tony Seals hit a free throw to open the final quarter. But Mathis went on a free throw binge and when Cole slipped in a center scored on a rebound and free throw to give West a five point advantage. Although center

Hill, Gendebien Win 12-Hour Sports Car Race

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — Phil Hill and Oliver Gendebien drove one

Ferrari until it broke down, then switched to another of the fiery red Italian cars and roared on to victory in the 12-hour Florida International 12-hour sports car endurance race Saturday night.

Gendebien, the Belgian ace, was at the wheel when the car flashed across the finish line at 10 p.m. after a brutal speed battle made more dangerous by a two-hour rain that laid a sheet of water over the concrete course.

Another Ferrari, piloted by French driving champ Jean Behra, was second.

Ferrari and the rugged little Prosches of Germany swept the board after the threat of the English Lister-Jaguars and Aston-Martin's lone entry from the British factory went out with mechanical troubles in the fourth hour.

Aston-Martin's lone entry from the British factory went out with mechanical troubles in the fourth hour.

Dozens of spins were reported on the rain-slickened track but there were no serious accidents.

Moss's car broke down only a few minutes after he whipped into first place.

The Redmen from New York put on a great second-half rally after falling behind by seven points to pull to a 63-63 deadlock at the end of the regulation time.

A crowd of 14,736 in Madison Square Garden yelled itself hoarse when St. John's snapped a 65-65 deadlock in the overtime on two free throws by Gus Alfieri.

But in the final analysis it was sophomore Tony Jackson who was the big man for Coach Joe Lapchick's men. He hit for 21 points and snatched 27 rebounds.

Jackson added two more free throws after Alfieri and the Redmen were four points in front of the top-seeded Braves.

Bobby Joe Mason cut the deficit to two points with just 1:26 of the overtime left. Half a minute later, Jackson grabbed a rebound for the Redmen and the clock showed exactly 30 seconds to go.

He slipped the ball to Alfieri, who cut loose underneath for a layup basket. He was fouled on the play and added a free throw. That gave St. John's a five-point bulge and broke the backs of the Braves.

Unseeded St. John's previously won the title in 1943 and 1944. Bradley won it in 1957.

With 10 minutes to go Bradley, fourth-ranked in the nation, appeared to have the title all wrapped up.

Suddenly St. John's caught fire. Alan Seiden and Jackson connected for field goals. Mason dropped in a foul shot for Bradley and the Braves went ahead 55-51. Then Jackson hit for two field goals and the game was tied.

Two minutes later Seiden put St. John's ahead for the first time, 57-55.

Now Bradley was on the defensive. The Braves had to do the catching. Gene Morse tied it again at 57-all, but big Lou Roethel sent the New Yorkers ahead again with a side court shot. And when Seiden made two free throws with 1:36 left, it looked as though the tide had changed and the ball game was St. John's.

But Bradley was not ready to roll over and play dead. In 12 seconds the Braves had tied it again at 61-61. Mike Owens connected from the side and then Mason intercepted a pass for an easy layup.

With 43 seconds to go, Al Saunders fouled Alfieri and Gus made good both his free throws to put St. John's ahead 63-61.

But 10 seconds later, Saunders made up for fouling Alfieri and the Braves were tied.

"I'm not worried about second base half as much as I am worried about the catching," said Haney. "I've got three catchers but should something happen to Del Crandall, we'd be in a bad way. Del Rice and Joe Lonnett are all right as second string, but neither can do the job on a regular basis."

"My infield problem isn't as acute as some think. Cottier makes the plays all right. The only question concerns his hitting."

Despite Haney's surface optimism, the second base situation still is up in the air.

The Braves' strength is their pitching, of course. Even Haney acknowledged he has more starters than he can use.

"Then I've got a couple of good looking rookies in Bob Hartman (20-10 at Atlanta) and Gerry Nelson (10-11 at Austin)," he said. And don't forget Don MacMahon, Humberto Robinson and Bob Trowbridge in the bullpen."

Haney's big seven consists of Warren Spahn (23-11), Lew Burdette (20-10), Bob Rush (10-6), Carlton Willey (9-7), Joey Jay (7-5), Bob Buhl (5-2) and Juan Pizarro (6-4).

In the 1933 Tennessee-Alabama football game, which "Bama won 12-6, Dixie Howell of Alabama got off a punt of 89 yards. It still stands as the Southeastern Conference record.

James Belz, Cathedral Coach, Charged With Scalping Tickets

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A Springfield basketball coach accused of scalping tickets to the State High School Basketball Tournament said Saturday his arrest was a frameup.

"They set a trap for me," James Belz, 28, coach at Springfield Cathedral High School, told The Associated Press.

Belz, who formerly coached basketball at St. Anthony's of Effingham and has been at Cathedral a year, was seized outside Huff Gymnasium in Urbana Friday night and charged with scalping.

Taken before Justice of the Peace Rex Davis, Belz posted $50 cash bail and was released pending a hearing Monday.

Deputy Sheriff Louis Munds who made the arrest said Belz offered him two tickets to the games for $25. Munds said he paid the $25 and then arrested Belz.

Belz told a newsman he went to the tournament with three tickets, intending to give two of them to some friends.

He said a man approached him near the gymnasium and offered him $25 for the two tickets. After the transaction, the man identified himself as a deputy and placed the coach under arrest, Belz said.

He denied emphatically that he solicited sale of the tickets.

"This could end my career in basketball," Belz said.

Belz played baseball with a St. Louis Cardinals' farm team in Rochester, N. Y., from 1948 through 1951. In 1951 he entered the armed forces and lost part of an arm in combat in Korea.

He started coaching basketball in 1953.

Two other men also were charged with scalping tickets to Friday night's games. Seized separately were Aldo O. Mondin of Hillsboro, and Howard R. Ferdinand of Peoria. They also were freed on $50 bail for hearings Monday.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — St. John's won an unprecedented third National Invitation Basketball Tournament Saturday with a dramatic 76-71 uphull overtime victory over Bradley.

New York Stock Market

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market this week backed away from historic highs on the biggest volume of 1959.

The key industrial were down enough on average to show a moderate loss for the list as a whole. Ralls and utilities were off slightly.

In view of the upsurge to successive new peaks the week before, the market's decline this week was very much according to Hoyle. The month-to-month rise which got under way nearly a year ago has had its occasional "rest periods."

Enough blue chips lost ground in various sections of the list to put the average down but speculative interest among secondary stocks was at fever pitch and led to some wide gains.

Volume of 21,612,740 shares compared with 21,107,150 the week before. For the third straight week turnover has been the greatest since the week ended last Oct. 19 when 24,402,570 shares changed hands.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $1.70 to $223.80. The market suffered its first shakeout in more than a month on Monday as profits were taken on the previous week's advance.

A vigorous recovery Tuesday did not quite recover all of Monday's losses. On the succeeding three days the average lost ground stubbornly in the midst of some pyrotechnics by special issues.

The U.S. Government bond market apparently withstood rather well this week the impact of the Treasury's new financing plans for four billion dollars. Corporate securities were markedly lower.

Trading for the week amounted to $35,557,500 par value on the Big Board, down from $37,888,700 the previous week, but sharply above $20,676,550 for the corresponding week a year ago.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP) — After Monday's broadest advance in two months, butcher hog prices declined steadily until Friday but finished the week steady to 25 cents higher for barrows and gilts and 25 to 30 cents higher for sows.

Offerings of 38,500 head for the week were the smallest in six months with one exception and the supplies on the 12 major markets were the smallest since last November.

However, local packers demand at Chicago was slow as several major pork items in the wholesale market declined $1 to $3.

The cattle supply was 10 per cent below the previous week and the smallest in three weeks at 38,500 head with offerings of prime grade steers the smallest in about nine months.

Because last week's snowstorm hampered livestock movement in some parts of the Midwest, supplies at Chicago were off the normal pattern and prices developed a two-way trend with a setback of as much as $1 in the wholesale beef market.

Trading in the sheep market was slow throughout the week with prices of slaughter lambs slipping $2 to $3. Shorn lambs and slaughter ewes were relatively scarce but woolled lamb offerings were more liberal than during the previous week.

After Monday there were rather large holdovers for the next day's markets.

GRAIN PRICES

NEAR PRICE

SUPPORT LEVELS
By GIL MAYO
AP Business News Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Trading in grain futures appeared to have pointed up again this week the reality that so long as there are huge surpluses the government price supports are ceilings over the market instead of floors under it.

The broad gains of a week ago which went to new highs for the season in some contracts exhausted all the push they could muster at those levels as supplies of wheat and corn particularly were more abundant.

The advances sent the market to levels about equal to government loan figures at some points and while they did not seem to have encouraged a general move toward redemptions of stocks from the loan they did attract considerably more liberal movement of grains from elevators and producers into commercial channels.

That squelched the bullishness in both corn and wheat. Oats and rye, however, added moderate gains in a steady, slow climb. Wheat futures were 1/4 cent higher to 1 1/4 lower than a week ago. May $2.04 1/4; corn 1/4 lower, May $1.16 1/4; oats 1/4 higher, May 66 1/4; rye 1/4 higher, May $1.39 1/4; soybeans 1/4 cent higher, May $2.24 1/4.

Never Says Goodbye; He Says 'Take It Easy'

By WALTER COVNE
NEA Staff Correspondent

CLEVELAND — (NEA) — John C. Vernier is a man who never says goodbye.

The cigar-smoking awning salesman says instead, "Take it easy." That phrase is his trademark.

The 47-year-old Cleveland is the founder and president of the International Take-It-Easy Club, a loosely knit organization aimed at slowing down people who are "in such a big rush to get through life that they're killing themselves."

Looking after his business and promoting the club on the side, the affable president would not appear to practice what he preaches. But he says, "The secret is learning to relax on the inside while looking after business on the outside."

Vernier has signed up over 50,000 members during the club's 12-year existence. Card carriers include President Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon, Julius La Rosa, Arthur Godfrey, Bob Hope, Herb Shriner, Olsen and Johnson and Harold Lloyd.

Originally Vernier distributed different cards for men and women. But when he met Hope in Atlantic City, Vernier had only a woman's card left. The comedian accepted the feminine card, saying, "When you're constantly alert for that phrase, you'll be surprised how often you hear it."

This cheerful man will cheerfully send anyone a membership card gratis. If a stamped, self-addressed envelope is provided. His address: 441 Reeve Road, Eastlake, Ohio.

The more members the better for, in Vernier's words, "the whole world is upside down. I mean, we should all loosen up. It's humanitarian."

Liquid Manure Setup Eases Cleaning Woes Of Illinois Hogs Lots

Marti Williamson, LaSalle county hog farmer, spends about 20 minutes a day keeping his feeding floor clean for 200 hogs.

He hand-scrapes the concrete finishing floor, follows it with a water rinse and collects this liquid manure to spread on his fields later. This system works well with normal farm water-line pressure.

Williamson believes that this flushing system keeps his swine facilities clean enough to give him good disease control. He's also bothered less with odors and flies in his hog-raising system.

Cleaning with water alone requires higher water pressures and more water than hand-scraping first and then rinsing with water. Roy Unzicker of Woodford county uses about 1,500 gallons of water for 1,000 hogs each time he cleans. But he washes the floors only once a week until the pigs weigh over 100 pounds and twice a week after that. The average is less than 1 gallon of water for each hog daily.

Most farm systems so far use hand-operated hoses and pressures varying from 100 to 125 pounds per square inch, according to D. G. Jedele, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture. He built. Some have increased agitators and some have not, but an agitator appears to be a desirable feature if you are having a tank made.

Spreaders Mostly Homemade
Spreading devices so far have been mostly homemade, and there has been very little scientific basis for their design. Agricultural engineers need to study the problem thoroughly and help to design efficient and effective collection and distribution systems for liquid manure, Jedele believes.

Floors built to collect liquid manure should be covered to keep rain from flooding the storage tank. Slopes can vary from 1 inch to one inch per foot. One-fourth inch is enough slope for the gutters. One-half inch per foot seems to be about right for floors, but one inch per foot may be used in dumping areas.

They Find Weeds Hard To Grow In Wintertime

URBANA — Growing weeds for one of the Farm and Home Festival exhibits this winter has forced University of Illinois agronomists to use some scientific ingenuity.

Weeds may grow almost anywhere without help in the summer. But Fred Silfe and Ralph Gantz have found that it's quite a different story in midwinter.

Gantz and Silfe are preparing a special weed identification and control test for visitors at the 1959 Farm and Home Festival at Urbana on April 2, 3 and 4. In order to have some of the live weed plants, they had to dig some of them up last fall and keep them alive in the greenhouse this winter. They are growing some others from seed.

But short winter days are not favorable for growth of many of the weeds. Some were drooping and lagging behind their time schedule. So the agronomists have had to make sure the weeds received plenty of water and fertilizer. They have also placed them in a room where they would receive more hours of light during the short winter days.

This has stimulated the plants' growth. They are now perking up and should be fully developed specimens for Festival visitors to try their skill at identifying.

Another part of the exhibit features a test to see how well visitors can pick the proper weed control chemical for each of the different weeds.

This exhibit is only one of more than 100 planned for the Festival. In addition, the Festival features a top-notch speaking program, a Town and Country Art Show and a Town and Country Talent Show. More than 15,000 persons attended the Festival in 1958.

To control sweet clover weevils, apply a granular insecticide at clove planting time. Use either dieldrin or heptachlor at the rate of 1/4 to 1/2 pound an acre, either broadcast or drilled.

Reforestation Work In Marquette District To Plant Many Trees

JERSEYVILLE — Reforestation in the Marquette district of Illinois will take another large stride forward in the tree planting program of the area this spring, according to Waldon Lewis of Jerseyville, district forester.

A total of 153,233 trees had been ordered for counties of the district up to Wednesday morning, according to a checkup of orders received at the district office in Jerseyville. In addition to orders already placed with the state nurseries, another 30,000 trees have been ordered from private nurseries for the various reforestation projects of the locality.

The Marquette district comprises the counties of Jersey, Greene, Calhoun, Morgan, Pike and Scott. Orders for trees will be received up to and including April 15.

Short on Black Walnut
At the Mason nursery at Toppa, Ill., the supply of black walnut seedlings, black walnut seed, cottonwood and red pine transplants was reported exhausted as of March 18. There is still on hand for this season's planting black locust, orange cedar, soft maple, jack pine, red cedar, red pine and white pine.

At the Union nursery at Jonesboro there is still a supply of ash, black locust, multiflora rose and shortleaf pine.

Forester Lewis reported Wednesday that eight orders have been placed to March 18 for Jersey county projects and a number of other orders are anticipated in the next few days. Jersey county orders call for 7,500 in various species of pines and 8,300 of multiflora rose.

In Calhoun county, six orders have been placed for contemplated projects, totaling 14,733 items divided into 6,333 pines, 4,000 multiflora rose and the balance in hardwoods.

Greene county will plant eight

U.I. Ag Alumni To Meet Apr. 3 During Festival

URBANA — The University of Illinois College of Agriculture Alumni association will hold its annual meeting at noon on Friday, April 3, during Farm and Home Festival. President Melvin Sims, Liberty, invites all alumni to come, meet old friends, make new ones and see the festival at the same time.

Top speakers, entertainment, a delicious lunch and election of officers will round out the noon-time program. All persons who have ever attended the College of Agriculture or Agricultural Short Course are urged to attend.

The meeting will be held in Room 314 Illini Union. Luncheon reservations should be sent to Harold Guhlmer, Secretary-Treasurer, 330 Mumford Hall, Urbana, by March 30.

This Week.. at Dixon Springs

Hog-tied and hanging from the hook of a spring scale was a still wet, wiggling red-and-white calf weighing 91 pounds. This happened one morning last week. As Oakley Robinson, Station herdsman, lowered the new babe to the ground, he commented that it weighed a good 20 to 25 pounds more than most newborn Herefords. Oakley should know because for the past 16 years he has recorded several thousand birth weights of station cattle, and this particular 91-pound calf was number 100 in the 1959 calf crop.

Calf catching is an every-morning job during this season. Any morning Oakley and his horse, Captain, may be found on one of the several maternity pastures, either looking for or catching and marking a newborn calf.

Besides getting a weight, Oakley tattoos and debrins all calves and castrates all grade male calves. In debrining, he clips the hair from the horn button, roughs the area with a corn cob and applies a caustic debrining fluid. The day we found Oakley weighing the 91-pound calf, he was tattooing number 4,200 into its ear.

Oakley carries on this operation in the open pasture, with the mother cow looking on anxiously and often excitedly. But he welcomes this strong maternal instinct, as it brings the dam in near enough, often within breathing-down-the-neck distance, to permit him to read her hip brand number. He needs to know this hip brand number so that he can register the new birth in his herd book.

This year Oakley expects about 300 calves, so his spring calf-catching duties were about one-third over. But, as in the past, come round-up and weaning time this fall, there will be absolutely no question about the production of each cow in the herd.

The weight and the quality of a calf can positively be blamed on or credited to one particular cow, because today Oakley is making positive identifications.

Good green, leafy hay may supply 10 times as much vitamin A per pound as corn. And sun-cured hay also supplies an abundance of vitamin D, which livestock need.

"Hard" alfalfa and clover seeds are perfectly healthy seeds, but they soak up water more slowly than normal seeds and therefore will not germinate as soon in the field. If frost or drought occurs after the seedlings emerge, the slow germination of hard seeds may actually be beneficial.

How To Raise Hogs On Concrete Topic Of FBFM Assembly

Many of the more enthusiastic raisers of pork of this area will go to the George Bauer farm west of Oakford Monday, March 30, to see how he is raising hogs in confinement, on concrete, and with less lot-space per hog than is now considered feasible by many specialists.

The meeting is being sponsored by the Sangamon Valley Farm Bureau Farm Management service and will begin at 9:30 a.m.

Bauer, a U.I. College of Agriculture graduate who turned his serious attention to hogs after his release from the air force, was one of the principal speakers at the Swine Day program held Tuesday in the auditorium of the Jacksonville High school. It was attended by 475 farmers from 19 Illinois counties, plus visitors from two counties in Missouri.

Bauer said that an examination of his farm records disclosed he was a much better hog man than he was a crops man, so he leased most of his farm and devoted his time to the production of pork.

He reported that he made some rather serious blunders, but that in the main he is raising prime, meat-type hogs with a minimum of feed and labor. He expects to market 2,000 head of hogs next year.

"I find that now I can feed and care for 100 sows easier than I could handle 30 a few years ago," he said.

During recent years he built an unusual farrowing house which attracted much attention. Last year he built a fattening house that is drawing even more attention. Each hog is allotted only eight square feet, which is considered mighty close confinement, but yet last year they converted 310 pounds of feed into 100 pounds of prime pork.

He also developed a novel feed handling, drying, grinding, blending and delivery system which shucked down costs. But he feels that his unit is not large enough for best results and he and some of his neighbors are now developing plans for a mutually-owned feed mill that will deliver the kind of feed they desire at any given amount—fresh from the mill.

This project also will be watched intently.

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

MILK PRODUCTION STABILIZED; MANY DAIRYMEN QUIT

Quite a number of dairy farmers quit dairying in 1958 and went into what they hope will be more profitable work. Other dairymen added more cows to develop more profitable dairy businesses. A few farmers began dairying for the first time.

All together, the total number of dairy cows was trimmed by almost 3 per cent during the past year. At the beginning of this year, cow numbers were estimated at 21,606,000 head, which was 22 per cent below the record high in 1945 and the smallest number on farms since 1921. Numbers of milk cows will surely be reduced again this year, though probably not so much as in 1958.

Milk production per cow went up again in 1958. The average was 6,330 pounds, which was nearly 3 per cent more than average production in the previous year. Milk production per cow has increased about 3 per cent each year for four years and is expected to increase about that much this year.

TOTAL MILK PRODUCTION apparently decreased by 1/2 per cent in 1958. It was the first year in which milk production had not increased since 1952. USDA dairy economists expect total production to resume its uptrend this year. But they figure that the increase will be less than 1 per cent.

Even though milk production declined slightly in 1958, farmers apparently sold more milk (and kept less on the farm) than in 1957.

for milk by U.S. farmers increased about 5 per cent from 1954 to 1957, but declined by about 2 per cent in 1958.

Farmers' total cash receipts from the sale of dairy products were at a record high in 1958, but by a small margin. Receipts were also boosted by a substantial increase in prices received from the sale of cull cows.

But increases in operating expenses and in the "cost of living" apparently reduced the total real income of dairymen in 1958. The average real income per dairy farm, however, probably remained close to 1957 levels.

A BRIGHT SPOT in the dairy situation is that the "surplus" has been shrinking. A larger proportion of the milk is being sold through regular channels, and less is being purchased for price support.

For example, in the 10 months ending with January, purchases of butter by the CCC for price support totaled 117 million pounds, 23 per cent less than the year before. And purchases of cheese amounted to only 30 million pounds, 86 per cent less than in the previous year.

SUCCESSFUL HOG FEEDERS REPORT ON THE NEW DIXIE 2-FEED HOG GROWING-FINISHING PROGRAM

SPECIAL NOTICE:
On June 6, 1958 — Dixie Mills launched its new 2-Feed Hog Growing-Finishing program. In less than one year, this new concept in hog feeding is being accepted and put to profitable use by thousands of hog feeders. Never before in Dixie's forty-eight year history has any feeding program met with such overwhelming approval.

FROM ILLINOIS

ORVILLE MITTLER, ROUTE 2, POCAHONTAS: "I recently ran a check on four kinds of feed. Dixie fed hogs gained 11 pounds per head more than the next closest bunch. I am very satisfied with the results that I am getting."

ROBERT WETZLER, ROUTE 3, CARROLLTON, MGR. CYPRESS LAND FARMS CO.: "We have 2,000 head of hogs planned for 1958. Our figures on feed costs per hundred pounds of gain show that we can produce 100 pounds of pork for between eight and nine dollars on Dixie's New 2-Feed Hog Growing-Finishing Program."

F. H. SUMMERS, SHELBYVILLE: "I feel the new 2-Feed Hog Growing-Finishing Program of Dixie's is a great improvement in hog feeding and finishing, at a time when profits are becoming more of a problem."

FROM MISSOURI

JAMES W. HOFER, ROUTE 3, SALEM: "I fed out 185 head of hogs in 1958. I use your Dixie Hog Finisher Concentrate mixed with my grain, raised on my farm here. It is tops as far as I am concerned. My hogs seem to like it as good or better than any hog finisher I have ever used and they seem to do better on it too."

H. W. LANGE, BLAND: "I raised 125 head of hogs in 1958. I think Dixie is very good feed and the hogs like it and do well on it. I have fed Dixie Baby Pig, Dixie Pig Creep, Dixie Pig and Sow, 40% Hog Grower, and 40% Hog Finisher. I think all of them are great if you want to get your hogs off to early market. I feel confident that everybody will profit by feeding Dixie."

JOHNIE SANCOUCIE, ROUTE 1, HIGHWAY 110, DESOTO: "We heard of so many of our friends and neighbors feeding Dixie Hog Feeds and getting excellent results that we decided to try it on 175 head this year, and we are sure glad that we did. Our results have been excellent."

FROM TENNESSEE

R. G. McCULLOUGH & SONS, ROUTE 1, MORRIS CHAPEL: "Dixie's Feeding Program is one we have been looking for, for a long time. We especially like Dixie's new Sow Concentrate, it is the best we have ever fed our sows. Our sows have farrowed more pigs per litter and larger pigs at birth than on any other feed. We're feeding Dixie exclusively now."

ROBERT BAKER, ROUTE 1, TROY: "I started some pigs on Dixie Pig Creep, so I decided to finish them on it just to try out Dixie. My cost per hundred pounds of gain on a recent bunch of hogs is between eight and nine dollars."

EDWARD FORD, TREZEVANT: "Dixie Baby Pig Creep is the best feed for baby pigs I have ever fed and the same goes for Pig Creep. I think a farmer that is short of home grown feed as I was in '58 will never regret buying Dixie's 15% Hog Grower and Dixie's 12% Hog Finisher, instead of buying corn and supplement."

THERE MUST BE A REASON! For the first time, a feeding program was developed to produce more gain, earlier market weights, and more profit for the feeder on less feeding costs. This can be proved. Other feeders have tried it with amazing results. You, too, can do the same.

Grange Presses Fight Against 'Draft Laws'

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The National Grange is continuing its fight against a permanent program of universal military training. The Grange charges that present "draft laws" are impractical, inefficient and inequitable; and that they infringe upon individual liberties guaranteed by the Constitution.

Spokesmen for the Grange recommend that man power necessary in maintaining and operating an effective defense system should be recruited, trained and maintained through a system of adequate incentives—not by compulsion.

In making these recommendations to Congress, Herschel D. Newsum, Master of the National Grange, pointed out that over half the young men eligible for "Selective Service" have been "exempt" for one reason or another. He charged that the present system is, therefore, discriminatory and that it does not provide "universal" military training.

Even though it was universally applied, he said that we do not need and cannot purposefully use

A Smart Farmer Starts From The Ground Up!

Ed Garlich, Elliott State Bank's Farm Manager, and John Hoecker, operator of one of the Martha Routh Estate farms, agree that dirt's not cheap... it's extremely valuable. Here, they talk over the fertilizer program to be used, taking into account the history of this farm, previous soil treatment, and results of recent tests. Together, they'll come up with the best solution. The Routh farm is one of the many successful farms managed by Elliott State Bank. Ed Garlich works closely with the operator to insure an efficient, profitable operation for the owners, and for the operator and his family.

Today, farming is a complex business. And the financial details of running a successful farm are almost as important as the knowledge of soil, crops, stock and equipment. Combine financial judgment and skill with real down-to-earth farming know-how and you have a profitable operation.

BIRTHDAY PARADE

Marchers And Parties Birthday Marchers go by. Yes, boys and girls, as we'll hear about some soon as we have seen our Birthday Parties!

Above is Sherry Louise Watson, smiling gayly as she gets ready to lead today's Birthday Marchers. Sherry is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Watson, 6 Ogden Road, South Jacksonville, and has one brother, Ricky. Sherry attends South Jacksonville school, and celebrated her 6th birthday March 15.

Here is Steven E. Hembrough, all snug and warm and ready to ride along in the parade. Steven is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Steven E. Hembrough of 600 E. Independence and he had his second birthday Sunday, March 15.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY to each and every one of our BIRTHDAY MARCHERS from all the JUNIOR PAGE READERS!

Judy Tranbarger's Party
Judy Tranbarger had a birthday party on her 7th birthday Friday, Mar. 6, 1959, from 7-9 at her home, 448 S. Main. Games were played and refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

Guests were: Loretta Thomas, Marilyn Chamberlain, Marsha Horn, Sandra Osborne, Linda Odom, Rita Odom, Mary Sue Ballard, Toni Jo Bauser, Brenda Gilliland, Mary Coats, Billy and Jackie Tranbarger.

Party For Linda Brockhouse
Mrs. Loren Brockhouse entertained for her daughter, Linda Susan, who celebrated her seventh birthday Sunday, March 8.

A number of her friends came and enjoyed games and contests. Prizes were given to Arlene Musch, Jim Six and Roger Lakamp.

After taking pictures and opening Linda's many nice gifts, the group was served refreshments of Birthday Cake and ice cream and their favors.

When all were served everyone sang the "Happy Birthday" song to Linda.

March is a big month for Linda as her shares birthdays with both of her Grandmothers.

Those attending were: Michael Brockhouse, Jim Six, Bruce Nickel, Roger Lakamp, Arlene Musch, Carol Jean Hart, Trudy Diane Brockhouse, Frances Gaddis and Mrs. Luther Brockhouse. Mrs. Warren Lakamp, Mrs. Melvin Musch and Mrs. Caryle Hart. Those sending gifts but couldn't come were: David Neinhiser, Vicki Hamilton and Janet Surratt. Two Parties For Cindy Schneider

Cynthia (Cindy) Ann Schneider was the honored guest, on her third birthday, at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Bourne of 1062 N. Diamond.

Around the basement fireplace, the group has a wiener roast with all the trimmings. After this, Cindy was presented with a cake on which were three lighted candles, ice cream and hot chocolate were served also.

Cindy enjoyed opening her gifts and playing games. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Schneider, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Hillmann, enjoyed the evening with them.

Then on Sunday Cindy and her Daddy and Mother brought another Birthday cake and had dinner with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Hillmann.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
To march in the BIRTHDAY PARADE just send your name, address, age and birthdate—with a snapshot if you have one—to the Jacksonville Junior Journal-Courier two or more weeks before your birthday. (If you're late, send your name in anyway—better late than never, you know!) Photos may be called for as soon as they are printed.

If you have a party, write and tell us about that later.

Let's Go Birding
A Surprise
By Emma Mae Leonhard
On that morning of February 28 we had been hiking around Lake Jacksonville for over an hour in search of anything that might be around. We had seen and heard the usual Tree Sparrows, Juncos, Cardinals, and Blue Jays.

Occasionally, a Song Sparrow pipped its song for us. Three Purple Finches and a Pigeon Hawk, a very good bird, jetted over our heads.

We were almost ready to call it a morning and were walking at a good pace back to the car, which muddy roads had forced us to park near the Boat Dock. All of a sudden out flew a chunky bird, one that was a little larger than a Bob-white.

Some beginners in birding have thought that it was a Bob-white, but it let go a whistling sound with its short rounded wings unlike that of any other bird. In fact we don't expect to see this bird easily. Its wing whistle and its swift flight, not as blustering as that of the quail, give away its presence and its identification. We agreed that we had seen the high light of the morning.

The Woodcock is one of the most securely camouflaged birds that we have. Above, its color is finely blended and varied with black, warm browns, gray, and russet, with the brown predominating. We see it as warm-brown bird with a dead-leaf pattern.

During the day it sits quietly in a shadowy retreat, or it nestles in old leaves in open upland woods. It is pretty hard for even the sharpest eyes to ferret out this dead-leaf colored bird, for it seems a part of the dead leaves and the tawny grass in which it is hiding.

Occasionally one can almost step on the bird frozen in its retreat, and certainly can be startled when it darts away from his foot with that queer wing whistle. I know, for I have had that experience.

Seems Neckless
The Woodcock is a strangely attractive bird. Its neck is so very short that the bird seems almost neckless. Its eyes are set off by a white eye-ring and are located far back and high in its head.

Its bill is extremely long; its wings are short and rounded; and its legs are short and stout. It might look to some bird watchers like a Wilson's Snipe; but the snipe is slimmer, has pointed wings, and zigzags as it flies, uttering a rasping note.

The habitat of the two birds is different: the snipe, as you know, prefers the margins of small streams and marshes; the Woodcock likes clean, sweet localities of the open woods. The Woodcock is also called by some people Big-headed Snipe, or Big-eyes.

How To Find It
Perhaps you would like to find a Woodcock. You might have to wait a long time and a long way, or you might stumble on it soon. We didn't see even one last year; and we rarely find more than one or two during a year.

We advise you to take a hike; and maybe, yes just maybe, you might be lucky enough to flush "Mr. Big-eyes" and to hear his wing whistle.

Good luck in your search! And remember that March and April are the best months to find him.

Weddings Parties and Clubs

Mrs. Rex Eugene Wade

PITTSFIELD—Miss Wanda Jean Franklin of Pearl and Rex Eugene Wade of Pittsfield were married March fourteen at the Green Pond Christian church by the Reverend Joe Maynard. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Franklin and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wade.

White glads and palms with tapers burning in candelabra adorned the church altar. Lewis Brown was pianist and accompanied the soloist, Maurine Boren.

Mrs. Ladon Johnson attended the bride and Robert Wade served his brother as best man. Dennis Wade, Havana, and Becky Boren were ring bearer and flower girl respectively.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore white length organza over taffeta with fitted bodice in Chantilly. The sleeves were long and lace applique finished the scoop cut neckline, also trimming the full skirt. A lace headress held the bride's veil and she carried red roses with her white Bible.

The matron of honor wore pastel green nylon chiffon over taffeta and carried white daisies with ivy.

A reception at the church followed the ceremony. Since their return from a short wedding trip the couple is residing at 504 East Second street, Beardstown. Mrs. Wade graduated from East Pike high school and has been employed here at Pike County Service company. The groom, a graduate of Pittsfield High School, served in the Army, and has since been employed by the C.I.P.S. company.

Miss Ina Stewart, 119 City for Founders Day, to be held in April, was given by the president. During the social hour prizes were awarded to Bernita Dodson, Helen Isaacs and Dona Floeth. The hostess served refreshments in keeping with the St. Patrick season but the dining table was centered with an Easter motif.

Split lamb kidneys that are to be broiled and remove fat and membrane with kitchen scissors. Use medium heat for the broiling and have the kidneys about four inches from the source of heat. Brush the kidneys with butter during the cooking and turn to brown both sides.

What cannot be cured, said Rabelais, must be endured.

Congressman's Liking For Painting Ends In Sponsorship

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—A congressman's life is full of surprises. For here is Rep. Bob Wilson (R) of Chula Vista, Calif., serving not as a sponsor for a bill, but as a sponsor for an artist.

Furthermore, the artist he is pushing isn't even a constituent. The scene was the Pan American Union, where an exhibit of Mexican paintings and drawing went on display, starring the works of Joaquin Chinas (he's the congressman's man) and Alberto Gironella.

"Funny how I got into this," Wilson was saying. "I was back in San Diego last October, and saw these drawings. I liked them. These pictures ought to be shown in the Pan American Union," I said, and, well, here we are."

Chinas, a pleasant young man of 35, is an Indian, born in Tehuantepec. He picks up a few dollars working as a common laborer.

He never has gone to art school, and he has been drawing seriously for only a couple of years. His pictures are in charcoal.

Chinas is grateful for this chance to show his stuff.

"I think I can produce something valuable," he said. "These, I think, are just samples of the beginning."

Now to Gironella, a pleasant young man of 29. He is married to a successful columnist and has been a painter since he was 15. Gironella's work is much grimmer than Chinas'.

He pointed to a picture of a dog, "Kiki." It was like no dog you ever saw, except in your nightmares.

"In this I was trying to symbolize something of Kiki's ferocity," he said.

Gironella then proceeded to discuss his use of color, and here he delivered a low blow to this nonartist.

"Yellow," he said, "is tragedy." And the reason it was a low blow is that, through ignorance, I've just finished painting the kitchen the brightest shade of tragedy you've ever seen.

TWO PRESIDENTS CONFER

E. A. Leach, left, Vice President of Sangamo Electric Co., who had just been re-elected President of the MacMurray Dad's Club, confers here with President Louis W. Norris in his office. Kenneth Stapleton, 1035 S. East, was re-elected Secretary. Leach and Dr. Norris discussed plans for Dad's Day in 1960, and for something new in the history of MacMurray—Parents Weekend next Fall. Dr. Norris announced to 130 Dads at the annual business meeting Thursday evening that both Parents Weekend and next year's Dad's Day will be designed for both husband and wife.

Annual Dad's Day Activities Climax MacMurray Weekend

"Our program for men has developed at a pace that we have anticipated, and with gratifying results," President Louis W. Norris of MacMurray College, reviewing the past year, emphasized this in speaking as part of Dad's Day activities Thursday. Daughters entertained their Dads, totaling about 250 parents in all, with water shows, a band concert, a tea dance, and a Friday morning brunch. Then MacMurray's 684 students made a mass exodus for Spring vacation at homes in nearly 40 states.

Women, Men Pulling Together
The MacMurray president told 130 Dads at a special buffet supper Thursday evening that the two colleges are showing increasing cooperation with each other in campus and social activities.

"When MacMurray College for Men was first begun, some of our women students thought that the men might take over their world, that the men would be disinterested in the academic side, and that they would be heavy drinkers. But none of these has proved to be the case. We therefore feel that these basic questions are answered satisfactorily, and the women feel this also."

Dr. Richard Nesmith, Dean of Men, reiterated Dr. Norris' statements, declaring that "if we are to make progress, we must realize that the two colleges should pull together."

In presenting a progress report before the annual business meeting of the MacMurray Dad's Club, Dr. Nesmith said that "a real academic tradition has developed" at the men's college, with upperclassmen (sophomores) leading the way in helping freshmen get a fresher start in classes than did the founding class in 1957-58.

The men's college dean also reported continuing growth in the student honor code, adopted by men after the fashion of that at MacMurray College for Women. Men are realizing, he said, that "freedom and responsibility in student government should go hand-in-hand."

Local Man Re-Elected
Kenneth Stapleton, 1035 South East, was re-elected secretary of club, which consists of mothers of MacMurray students. She has twin daughters, Joan and Mary, in the freshman class.

Mrs. Carol King, 614 Jordan, became the new vice president of the Women's Campus Club. Her daughter, Rebecca, is a freshman. Remaining as treasurer is Mrs. Albert Pearce, whose daughter, Ann, is a senior. They reside at 3 Pitner Place. New secretary is Mrs. Alfred J. Henderson whose husband is professor of European History at MacMurray.

Project chairman is Mrs. Walter B. Meyer, Glendale, Mo., whose daughter, Johanna, is a senior at MacMurray.

She will direct other members of the Women's Campus Club in the immediate project of purchasing and installing a drinking fountain in Annie Merner Chapel. The club had previously placed one in Jones Hall, one of the women's dormitories. Further projects will be planned in detail at the club's next meeting in the fall.

Speaking at the Campus Club meeting in the Norris home at 339 East State were Clarendon Smith, business manager; Helen Brod, Dean of Women; and Dr. Richard Nesmith, Dean of Men.

Four Dormitories By 1960
President Norris told parents in his Thursday evening talk that four dormitories will be available for male students by September, 1960. This will include a third new dormitory in contemporary architecture similar to Blackstock and Norris Houses.

He also announced to campus guests that the college has purchased land on Rountt street for an athletic field. However, MacMurray officials do not contemplate a football team until there are at least four classes of men.

A pressing need at present, Dr. Norris said, is a classroom primarily for the sciences. He described MacMurray Hall, at the corner of South Clay and East College, as adequate, although more equipment—and especially that designed particularly for men—will be needed as the new college develops.

Mothers Elect Four Officers
Mrs. Louis W. Norris was hostess at the Women's Campus Club meeting at her home also at this time when new officers for the coming year were elected. Mrs. John R. Durland of Brentwood, Mo., was elected president of the

NEW PRESIDENT OF CAMPUS CLUB

Mrs. John R. Durland of Brentwood, Mo., a St. Louis suburb, is shown here with her twin daughters, Nancy and Joan, together at MacMurray. She was elected new President of the Women's Campus Club, an organization consisting of mothers of MacMurray women. She succeeded Mrs. Kenneth Knox of Decatur, Ill. Her husband is the Technical Production Manager for Monsanto Chemical Co.

DADS HAVE BUFFET THURSDAY

The first batch of 130 MacMurray Dads is shown here as they help themselves to a sumptuous buffet in the Hub, student social center in the basement of Rutledge Hall. They had just finished registering for the two-day activities, which included as chairman of one of six committees Miss Sondra Search of White Hall. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Search. Mr. Search presented the nominations at the business meeting, which resulted in re-election of Leach as President and Stapleton of Jacksonville as Secretary.

PREPARE FOR TRADITIONAL TEA

Here MacMurray students make last-minute preparations for the traditional Dads and Daughters tea dance. In background, at top left, is Miss Sondra Search, who was chairman of the dance. If you look closely, you can see one of the MacMurray dads busily engaged in the task at hand—namely, to get decorations up before the onrush from Orr auditorium, where the band concert was at that time in progress.

Why a MEDALLION Home?

All Medallion Homes must be:

1. adequately wired for modern electrical living
2. well lighted to serve each living area
3. equipped with certain basic appliances for modern living

ILLINOIS
COMPANY

In a Medallion Home your electric appliances operate at top efficiency. You're through with blown fuses...a shrinking television picture..."octopus outlets"...inefficient appliance operation due to overloaded circuits...and a Medallion Home is wired for future needs, too!

In a Medallion Home you have light for living—wherever you need it—for whatever you want to do. Indoor living is more relaxing, more fun. A Medallion Home is safer, too, with stairs and halls well-lighted and convenient switches at each room entrance.

In a Medallion Home you enjoy time-and-work-saving basic major electric appliances that take away drudgery...add so much pleasure and comfort to your life.

And a Medallion Home is a good investment—more salable, too, because everybody recognizes that it's electrically ready for the future.

As I See It

by E. W. BROWN

Well, President Eisenhower's budget is getting pushed around like a sheepherder at a cattle-men's convention . . . and somebody is going to have to pay for what Congress is voting for. While I hate to mull over the more morbid memos of life, as a viewer of the news and times I feel I ought to remind you that April 15th is no more than a gasp away. If that means nothing to you, lots of folks would like to be in your loafers. On April 15 Uncle Sam wants a final summing up of your financial standing for 1958 . . . even if you have to sit down to do it. Somebody said there's nothing definite but death and taxes . . . only death doesn't get worse every time Congress meets. Anyway, do it now, and save the last minute agony. Remember, it's only money.

And by the way, if you are looking for a good used car see our listing in the classified ads today.

In Iowa it was found that a certain freight train was delayed because the crew always stopped along the way to shoot rabbits. We can see how that could make them a hare late. You can see quickly the difference in ease of driving and riding comfort between the new 1959 Plymouth and other cars in its price range. Chrysler engineers accepted the challenge to produce a vastly superior car and they did it! . . . superior in styling and engineering, providing the ultimate in dependable and economical operation. Cope in and test drive the beautiful new 1959 Plymouth. E. W. Brown, 406 South Main, Phone CH. 5-4333.

IBSS School Library Unique In Service

By Francine Moon

With an expressive "oo," seven-year-old Charlotte pushes open the heavy door of the library, pauses outside to feel nimbly and quickly with her toe to find the edge of the step; then hippity-hops to the library's front door. The door of the Illinois Braille and Sight-Saving School. Under her arm is what most little girls would think a sizeable brown-covered book with the thrilling title, "Big Purr and her Kittens." Charlotte is all excited to get to the sitting room to read her first library book. This is an event in her life, it goes without saying.

Overall Program

At the same time, two hundred miles away, a mailman stops his jeep in front of a bungalow. He carries a parcel marked "Free Reading Matter for the Blind" and deposits it beside the front door of the bungalow. Mrs. Brown opens the door and finds the awaited parcel. It is just a year since that terrible, now not quite so terrible, time when her sight suddenly left her. A visiting state teacher of the adult blind has taught her to read braille. The parcel contains the first novel she will read with her fingers. This, too, is an event in Mrs. Brown's life.

Also, at the same time in the residential area of another town, a postman with a heavier package rings the doorbell of a home. The door is opened by a retired grocer who is wearing dark glasses. "Good morning, Mr. Smith," the postman says. "I have brought you a case of Talking Book Records from the library for the Blind in Jacksonville." "Thank you," says Mr. Smith. "It is the first book I shall read since I had the trouble with my eyes." This is an event in the life of the retired grocer.

So it is that the Library for the Blind at the Braille and Sight-

Saving School, like other libraries of its kind, has two classes of readers, those on the school's campus, and those scattered throughout southern Illinois, and Iowa; and two kinds of books, those printed in braille and those recorded on phonograph records. Through the front door of the library come the students of the school for service; through the back door of the library, books are loaded on the school's truck to go to the post office for mail order customers.

First of Its Kind

This library was one of the first to be set up after Congress, in 1907, passed the Act permitting free passage of books for the blind through the mails.

At first, the library was maintained entirely by state appropriations. In 1932 Congress began regular appropriations for the embossing of books for the blind, and the handling of these appropriations was left to the Library of Congress which designated twenty-eight regional libraries to receive and distribute the books resulting from these appropriations. The library at the school for the blind in Jacksonville became one of the regional libraries.

In 1934, Talking Books began to be recorded and now every corner of the library is crowded to the limit with ever-increasing accessions.

In conclusion, the more than two hundred students of the school, as in other libraries, receive personal attention. But to satisfy the preference and requirements of readers a distance, the librarian must concern herself with the analysis of correspondence. It takes much patience to cope with the impatience of those who imagine that every desired book is immediately available. Not the least of the difficulties is the need of college stu-

John L. Sullivan won the American heavyweight championship in 1883, when he defeated Paddy Ryan in 9 rounds at Mississippi City. Newspapers carried complete reports of the bout. Newspapers today offer more comprehensive reports than ever of all the important local, national and international sports news.

The first successful sea voyage by steam boat was made by John Stevens' Phoenix in 1809. Last year steamboat advertisers invested over $4,700,000 in daily newspapers to tell about their accommodations.

Quincy spoke nervously. "You—you startled me," he said. "Sorry," I said. "Kind of hard to see, isn't it? Why don't you turn on a light?"

"I didn't want to advertise what I was doing," he nodded at the tester. "I've been thinking about what happened this morning and came out to check this tester, when there was nobody around to interfere."

"Sorry to interfere," I said. "Oh, that's all right. I can't understand what made it speed up as it did. The RPM and surface speed indicators seem to be okay, and so do the speed controls."

"Could the operator increase the speed, if he wanted to?"

"No—not unless he changed the belt on the drive shaft. And there'd be no reason for him to do that."

I turned the light on the overhead shaft which supplied power to the tester.

"What's behind that partition?" I asked, shining the light on the drive shaft where it entered the hole in the far wall.

"Just a kind of storeroom."

I walked across the huge room to the wall, opened a door and flashed the light inside. Quincy followed and stood behind me. It was long and narrow and filled with all sorts of equipment—piles of belting, steel pipes, various machinery parts. The drive shaft ran overhead and through the opposite wall, presumably to the source of power. Midway from the hole in the partition a wooden lever hung downward from the shaft. Directly beneath was a wooden packing case. I stepped up on the case, found that the lever could then be easily reached. Also, after shining the light through the hole in the partition, I could clearly see the speed testing machines.

"I stepped down from the packing case, still holding the lighted flash. I swung the beam upward to the shaft, wishing I knew more about mechanics, and was standing that way when I heard a soft, metallic coughing sound from somewhere close, followed by an ugly THUNK in the brick wall beside me. The still air buzzed beside my right ear on the backwash of a passing missile. I turned off the flash, feeling fear, and crouched in the darkness. I thought I heard a furtive scurrying, something, but it could have been the pulsing of blood in my coronary artery. I huddled in the dark, smelling oil and metal and dust.

There was a momentary flicker as the fluorescent lights came on in the inspection department, and then there was full light shining through the open door. I felt naked and was still afraid, but I stood up bravely and faced the door, thinking with yearning of the gun in my bag at the Maple Inn.

Lawrence Quincy came through the door. "Sorry to be late," he said.

Routt Highlights

by Marilyn Cors and Elizabeth Curtis

Father McCarthy, a member of the Oblates of Mary Immaculate, was at Routt on March 16. He spoke to assemblies of students, counseling them on the choice of a vocation.

On March 14, several seniors took the College Board Entrance Examinations given at Illinois College, Champaign, Ill.

The Routt faculty attended the Morgan County Teachers Institute held at Jacksonville High School on Friday, March 20.

The baseball season at Routt has opened with a bang. During the past week the team has had batting practice on the field behind Routt.

On Wednesday, a foul ball sailed in the wrong direction and broke a classroom window. Lawless put some "umph" behind that ball!

Some senior students spent the eighth period Thursday, March 19, decorating Formaz Hall. The senior class sponsored a dance here Thursday evening.

With The Girl Scouts

Mrs. John Newcomb, who is retiring this month as president of the Board of Directors of the Illinois Prairie Girl Scout Council, was guest of honor Tuesday at a luncheon given by the vice president of the Board and the executive director at the home of the latter. Twenty-one members of the Board and board committee members were present for the gala event. Mrs. Newcomb was presented with the thanks badge from the group.

Brownie Troop No. 96 of Jefferson school, Mrs. Robert Reeve, leader, held an investiture Wednesday at the school cafeteria. Twenty girls received their Brownie pins and two girls received their membership stars. Each girl served her guest, mother or father, with orange drink, Brownie cookies, and a shamrock. Group singing of Brownie songs was enjoyed and each girl gave the Brownie pledge. Mrs. Darwin Ronat is the assistant leader and Mrs. Irene Fairfield and Mrs. Mary McGath are members of the troop committee.

Mrs. Herschel Reiser's Intermediate Scout troop No. 84 of Ashland held their investiture service on Wednesday. Five girls received their pins, two were absent and will be invested next week; also five girls received their second class badges. On Saturday members of the troop went bowling in Pleasant Plains.

Meetings scheduled for next week promise another full week for the Executive director, Tuesday at 2 p.m. Waverly and Franklin leaders will meet at Waverly. On Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. there will be a meeting of mothers at Franklin, Illinois, in the music room at the grade school. Mrs. Hartman will discuss plans for several troops to be organized there.

The Jacksonville Neighborhood leaders will meet Thursday, March 26, at 9:30 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Martin Newman, neighborhood chairman, at 4 Sunnydale.

Big plans for the 1959 Girl Scout cookie sale in the four counties comprising the local Girl Scout Council were inaugurated Wednesday when a cookie workshop was held in the Girl Scout office, 110 North East street in this city. More than 60 women attended, all of them serving as cookie chairmen for troops, schools or communities.

Mrs. Sam Pack of this city is general chairman of the cookie sale in the council and conducted the meeting. Special instruction and advice was given by Mrs. Eva Anderson of Chicago, who also showed an interesting variety of craft work done by Girl Scouts, using the cookie boxes, wrappers and cartons.

Intermediate Troop No. 63 of Lafayette school, Mrs. Darrell

"I see what you mean. Yes, that lever controls the speed of the shaft, but—"

"Somebody just took a shot at me," I said, watching him. He gazed at me blankly. "What? I—I didn't hear anything!"

"It was an air gun, or a gas gun. It didn't make much noise." I moved to him quickly, and patted him all over before he could move. If he'd had a gun, he'd ditched it.

I pointed to the packing case. "A person could stand on that box and have a clear view of the testers through the hole in the shaft enters. He could make a wheel explode just by pulling the lever. And the operator at the tester couldn't do anything about it."

Quincy frowned. "You mean someone deliberately caused that wheel to break?"

"Yes," I said grimly, "and he broke it just when Ackerman and I were standing there."

"I—I promised my wife I'd pick her up. She—she's at a movie." He moved his hands nervously. "Bennett, I don't understand all this. Why are you so concerned?"

"Because I was shot at," I snarled.

I swung away and left him standing there.

I left the plant by the shipping ramp, walked past the main office building and turned left. On my right about 20 feet away was a 10-foot steel fence topped with four strands of barbed wire. There were lights on the fence, 40 or 50 yards apart, but between them the shadows were deep. I came to a wooden outbuilding, a shed, stopped in its shadow and stared at the dark windows of the plant. Inside I saw a light glimmer, and go out.

I heard a faint grating sound. I swung my gaze in its direction. A door in the wall of the factory was sliding back, very slowly. I could barely see the movement in the gloom. The door stopped moving, remained half open. Then a dark figure appeared. I saw the white blur of a face.

Sale of cookies begins April 3 and continues through April 11 with no advance orders taken this year. There will be three kinds sold this year: Sandwich creme, chocolate mint and a new kind, double fudge which is a vanilla cookie with chocolate filling.

The following persons will serve this year as community and school cookie chairmen: Mrs. Walter Lohman, Ashland; Mrs. Norris Whorton, Bluffs; Mrs. Bud Roth and Mrs. Donald Allen, Carrollton; Mrs. Ruth Marcy, Champaign; Mrs. Eloise Barton, Greenville; Mrs. Ruth Galloway, Roodhouse; Mrs. Wilma Ball, Waverly; Mrs. Robert Allen, White Hall; Mrs. Dorothy Rodgers, Winchester.

In Jacksonville: Mrs. William Cook, Franklin school; Mrs. Clarence Morris, high school; Mrs. Ralph Mudd, Jefferson school; Mrs. Burnell Rentschler, Lafayette school; Mrs. Nick Gioscio, Lincoln school; Mrs. William Swain, North Jacksonville school; Mrs. Floyd Sorrell, Our Saviour's school; Mrs. George Greiner, Salem Lutheran school; Mrs. Robert Haman, Washington school; Mrs. Lester Abbott, South Jacksonville school.

North was not going to be shut out and his four no-trump (Blackwood) was on the overbid side. East got right into the act and bid five spades and South's double was an all purpose bid. It was supposed to show the three aces he would have if left to himself and if North wanted to pass that would be all right too.

North went to six hearts and when it got back to West he kept the flag flying with a bid of six spades. He could not make it but he did not care. No one was going to make a vulnerable slam against him.

North doubled but when it got to South he could not stand properly. He had a very big hand and decided that his partner had to have the fourth ace. South went to seven hearts and the East-West gambling had paid off.

In fact, East doubled the slam so they picked up 200 points. Needless to say South's grand slam bid was very bad. When North doubled the six spades he told his partner that they could not make seven. South should have believed him.

Hold Missionary Luncheon At Jewsbury Home

The members of the Lynnville Christian Church Missionary Society held their annual guest day luncheon at the home of Mrs. Claude Jewsbury on Mound Road. All women of the church were invited as guests.

Mrs. Jack McNeely and Mrs. Gerald Heaton were co-chairmen of the luncheon which was served to 35 guests. Mrs. Tom Dodsworth and Mrs. Harold Hamel were in charge of the decorations for the tables which had a small testament and candle on each one.

Grace preceding the meal was offered by Mrs. Anna Overton of Alsey. Mrs. Jewsbury welcomed the guests and presided at the afternoon program in the absence of the chairman, Mrs. Earl Hempel.

Mrs. Henry Mason gave the devotion entitled "Service to Others," a topic timely for this season of the year. She closed with a poem, "No Hands But Our Hands."

An impressive memorial service in memory of the late Miss Lillie McKinney, a former member, was presented during the afternoon. Mrs. Mabel Crown, executive secretary of the CWP, was guest speaker for the program. Her topic was "Christian Women's Fellowships."

At the close of the afternoon's activities Mrs. Russell Flynn, world call chairman, spoke of the need of having a world call service program. The missionary benediction dismissed the meeting.

Standard Dealers At Conference

Local Standard Oil representatives were among the 2,200 dealers, agents and other employees who attended the company's annual sale conference held in St. Louis Thursday.

The theme of the sales exposition was, "Sell the Line in '59," according to L. A. Henry, manager of the Quincy district.

Attending from Jacksonville and Chapin were: Jacksonville Bill Shanahan, Jack Yording, Glenn Lair, John Parker, John Thorpe, Ralph Shelburne, Howard Covey, Warren Massey, and Henry Finch.

Chapin: Harry Waters and Ed Middendorf.

West's three spade bid is not recommended as a general diet for bridge players but things had been going badly for him all day and he was not going to give up the rubber without a struggle.

Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Uncle Sam's out looking for more cash today—some four billion dollars. He needs it to tide him over until you pay your income taxes.

Some bankers are stressing that in spite of the Treasury's constant trotting to the market to raise more cash, today's economy is in many respects less liquid than it was during other periods of business expansion.

Demand for funds by federal, state and local governments and by home builders has been marked. But on the part of business itself the demand has been slack—a factor that bankers say has helped hold in check the inflationary effects of the Treasury's big deficit.

The U. S. Treasury has raised more than 10 billion dollars of new money in the last eight months.

Mortgage financing has spurted, too. In the second half of 1958 the volume of outstanding mortgages increased by $15 billion.

Coupled with various government issues, this more than offset the drop in corporate financing.

Economists of the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York report that the growth in the money supply slowed appreciably as business activity picked up and the supply now appears "as small in relation to total economic activity as at any time since the early 1930's."

The bank officials note that until recent weeks corporations have found themselves with limited funds for additional money and with rising internal sources of funds.

Not only did corporations cut their rate of borrowing from the banks, but they've had idle funds for active buying of government securities. This has been a big help to the Treasury in financing its deficit.

The Federal Reserve Board in trying to keep the deficit from swelling bank credit and speeding inflation.

This condition may not last much longer. If business activity continues to increase, inventory build-ups will become sizeable, and later business outlays for plant and equipment should rise. Then corporations will be borrowing from the banks instead of buying the Treasury's offerings.

The original "Anchors Aweigh" was written by Charles A. Zimmerman. The lyrics were revised by George Lottman.
